As Ordinance Tormed Invalid-Snodgras VIII Serve Eighteen Years-Other Opinions Rendered.

The Supreme Court of Appeals yester-day reversed the decree of the Corporation Court of Bristol in the case of John McCrowell against the city of Bristol. The suit was one to perpetually enjoin and restrain the city and its Treasurer from lecting the amount of a certain local assessment levied by the city upon Mc-Crowell for the cost of the laying of a lithic pavement in front of the progranolithic pavement in front of the property of the plaintiff on Main street in the city of Bristol. The opinion in the case is a very long one, having been carefully prepared by Judge Richardson. Section 24 of the charter of the city of Bristol which touches upon the streets of the place, goes on to say that the Council shall have power and authority to have the sidewalks and gutters along any street in said city for such a width as it may prescribe paved or otherwise improved and altered at the proper expense and cost of the owner of the lands or lots along the fronts or side of which such sidewalks or improvements may extend, and to levy and collect such local assessments on these lots as may be necessary to pay for said improvements, these assessments to be collected in the same manner as other taxes are collected.

A GRANOLITHIC FAYEMENT.

A GRANOLITHIC PAVEMENT.

The resolution of the Bristol Council provided that the city should grade Main street from Virginia to Scranton, and that the property-owners should be required to lay or pay for a granolithic pavement on the same in front of their respective properties, &c.

The Supreme Court in its decision takes the ground that the clause of the 24th section of the charter of Bristol referred to is confined to sidewalks and gutters and in unmistakable terms confers upon the Council the authority to prescribe the width of sidewalks and gutters and to have such sidewalks and gutters are to have such sidewalks and gutters properly the width of sidewalks and gutters and to have such sidewalks and gutters properly paved, repaired, altered, or otherwise im-proved, at the cost of the abutting own-ers, and to levy and collect local assess-ments as prescribed, &c.; but this clause, it asserts, plainly limits and restricts the power of the Council, as respects levying and collecting local assessments, to paving or otherwise improving sidewalks and

A TECRNICALITY. The decision quotes and requotes the language of the resolution and ordinance of the Council in regard to this work, which say "the property-owners to lay or pay for a pavement on Main street," &c., the term "sidewalk" not being used. The opinion says: "Inat this ordinance or resolution of the Council plainly requires resolution of the Council plantly requires the abutting property-owners, if anybody, to pay for a granolithic pavement on Main street, and not a sidewalk or gutter on that street, cannot for a moment be questioned.

* It is conceded that the improve-ment for which the pretended assess-ment in question was made was of a sidewalk on Main street, in the city of Bristol; but it must be borne in mind that the auestion is not whether city of Bristol: but it must be berne in mind that the question is not whether the said Council had authority to pass a valid ordinance for such an improvement and to levy and collect local assessments to defray the expenses thereof, but whether under the ordinance in question the assessment is valid." Continuing, the opinion declares that if this ordinance be valid and binding the City Council could go ahead and pare the entire width of the street and assess the abutting owners with the cost thereof, and it asserts that no such power is conferred by the charter, either expressly or by necessary implication.

REFERENCE TO THE CHAMBEBLAINE CASE.

The decision concludes as follows: "In the printed notes of arguments of counsel the question was discussed whether under the Constitution of Virginia the Legislature had the power to confer upon the Conneil of the city of Bristol the authority to levy and collect local assessments, as provided by the 2th nection of its charter. The same question was carefully and at length considered, though not deeded, in the very recent case of the city of Norfolk is. Chamberlaine, not yet reported. As in that case so here it is not absolutely necessary to a proper decision of the case that that question be decided. * * It is not, therefore, to be understood that this court in any respect recedes from the constitutional view of the subject expressed in the city of Norfolk is. Chamberlaine, supra.

"For the reasons above stated we are "For the reasons above stated we are clearly of opinion that the assessment in question was levied without authority and is waid, and that the decree of the court below dissolving the injunction and dismissing the plaintiff's bill was erroneous and must be reversed and annulled and a decree entered here perpetually enjoining the said city of Bristoi, J. L. C. Smith, Treasurer of said city, and all others from proceeding in any way to collect said assessment."

A very lengthy opinion was also rendered in the case of Wetster Snodgrass against the Commonwealth. The decision was prepared by Judge Lacy and affirmed the decree of the County Court of Wise county. The case was one in which Snodgrass was convicted of killing Morgan Shacker, and was sentenced to imprisonment in the penticularly for eighteen years.

Amateur Oarsmen to Meet.

Amateur Oarsmen to Meet.

The annual freeting of the Virginia Association of Amateur Oarsmen will be held in this city about the middle of next week. It will be decided at that time whether or not the Virginia Boat Club will remain in the State organization or go into the Misryland Association. The Richmond crew feel that it would be of little avail for them to connect themselves with the Virginia association while 80 little interest is being manifested in the organization.

The Virginias, in any event, will still row in all the local contests. They are now making arrangements for the soring work. They have purchased four beautini boats, which cost about $450, and as soon as the weather becomes a trifle warmer they will begin practice for the summer.

The Hot Springs will figure as one of the most fashionable and attractive watering-places in the State this season. In the last few months over $506,000 have been expended in improvements. A forty-thousand-dollar boulevard has been built from the Hot to the Warm Springs, and a $125,000 bath-house, with thirty-six rooms, has been spected. The "Old Romesteed" building has been renovated, and a magnificent new hotel, together with ten cottages, has been erected. The springs will have a capacity for 500 gnests, and the season will commence on the 1st of April. The grounds will be lighted by electricity and all the buildings will be magnificently equipped. Mr. Waller Scott, the representative of Preston Belvin, has secured the contract to furnish the hotels, and $2,000 will be expended by the manager for this purpose.

$0,000 will be expended by the purpose.

Mr. Decatur Axtell, the vice-president of the Chesapeake and Ohio railway, is vice-president of the company who have charge of the springs property, and several other prominent railroad-men and capitalists are financially interested in the resort.

This eminent physician ACTUALLY writes as follows:—
"From the careful analyses of Professor Arrivato and others, I am satisfied that Mesars.
Van Hourse's Cocoa is in no way injurious to health, and that it is decidedly more nutritious than other Cocoas.—It is certainly "Pure" and highly directible.

The quotations in certain advertisements from my book on Therapeutics are quite misleading and cannot possibly apply to Van Hourse's Cocoa.

The false reflection on Van Hourse's Cocoa is thus effectually repelled and the very authority cited to injure it, has thereby been prompted to give it a very handrome testimomial. MINESON MEDICAL PROPERTY.
